WILSON'S CABINET
DEFINITELY KNOWN

Names of Advisers Whom He Will Nominate to Sen-

WILLIAM J. BRYAN HEADS
THE STATE DEPARTMENT

William B. Wilson First to Hold the Labor Portfolio.

TWO COLLEGE MEN IN THE LIST

One to Preside Over War Department, the Others in the Department of Agriculture.

Personal Sketches.

President Wilson's cabinet is complete and it remains only to formally send the nominations to the Senate tomorrow. Until actually nominated the list is unofficial, but the list is definitely accepted to be as follows:

Secretary of State—William Jennings Bryan of Nebraska.
Secretary of the Treasury—William G. McAdoo of New York.
Secretary of War—Lindley M. Garrison of New Jersey.
Attorney General—James McReynolds of Tennessee.
Postmaster General—Albert Burleson of Texas.
Secretary of the Navy—Josephus Daniels of North Carolina.
Secretary of the Interior—Franklin K. Lane of California.
Secretary of Agriculture—David F. Houston of Missouri.
Secretary of Commerce—William C. Redfield of New York.

In Line With Wilson's Policy.
The selection of Vice Chancellor Garrison of New Jersey to be Secretary of War is in line with the idea Mr. Wilson has always had that the head of the War Department should be a man of unusual administrative ability. Supervision of the island possessions of the United States, including the Philippines and the Panama Canal Zone, will be important factors under the new administration, and this burden will fall on the shoulders of the Secretary of War. Vice Chancellor Garrison is a close friend of Mr. Wilson and is regarded as one of the best men New Jersey has ever elevated to the bench.

The choosing of David Franklin Houston, chancellor of Washington University at St. Louis, Mo., for the portfolio of Agriculture also occasions little surprise, as Mr. Wilson's intimate knowledge of agricultural questions has led him to seek a man familiar with the processes of advancing scientific farming and allied questions in this country. Mr. Houston was president of the Texas Agricultural and Mechanical College for a number of years.

Legal Training Desirable.
For the portfolio of Secretary of the Interior it is said Mr. Wilson has been influenced to select a westerner of legal training. Franklin K. Lane's experience as interstate commerce commissioner, his education at Vanderbilt University and his judicial tasks involved in administering the public land policy of the country.

Personal Sketches.
The classification of the cabinet members, based upon their previous activities, is as follows: William Jennings Bryan, publicist and editor. Born at Salem, Ill., March 19, 1860. Home, Lincoln, Neb. Educated at Illinois College. Democratic candidate for President of the United States, 1906, 1908 and 1909. Served in Spanish-American war. Made trip around the world in 1903.
Secretary of the Treasury—William Gibbs McAdoo, lawyer and railroad president. Born near Marietta, Ga., October 31, 1863. Home, New York city. Practiced law in Tennessee and New York. Builder of great tunnels under Hudson river. President of Hudson and Manhattan railroad.
Secretary of War—Lindley M. Garrison, jurist. Forty-nine years old. Born at Camden, N. J. Home, Merchantville, N. J. Son of an Episcopal clergyman. Brother of Justice Charles G. Garrison of the New Jersey supreme court. Appointed to the chancery court in 1904 and reappointed by Chancellor Mahlon Pitney, now a member of the United States Supreme Court.

Head of Department of Justice.
Attorney General—James Clark McReynolds, lawyer. Born at Elkton, Ky., February 3, 1862. Home, New York city. Educated at Vanderbilt University and University of Virginia. Practiced law at Nashville, Tenn., many years. Assistant attorney general of the United States. Afterward specially retained by government in anti-trust matters, particularly in tobacco and coal trust cases.
Postmaster General—Albert Burleson, congressman and lawyer. Born at San Marcos, Tex., June 7, 1863. Home, Austin, Tex. Educated at Texas A. & M. College, Baylor University and University of Texas. Assistant city attorney. Elected to sixty-third Congress. Secretary of the Navy—Josephus Daniels, newspaper owner and editor. Born at Washington, N. C., May 18, 1862. Home, Raleigh, N. C. Educated in Wilson (N. C.) Collegiate Institute. Editor of Wilson (N. C.) Advance at eighteen. Of Raleigh State Chronicle, 1886, and Raleigh News and Observer since 1891.

TAFT LEAVES TOWN

Former President Goes to Georgia for a Rest.

ACCOMPANIED BY FAMILY.

Delegation of Augusta Citizens Acts
as Escort—Cabinet Bids Him Farewell.

William H. Taft, private citizen, left town this afternoon in a special car on the Atlantic Coast Line, as the cheers of thousands were ringing for Woodrow Wilson, the new President.
Returning to the White House from the Capitol with President Wilson, and joining the new President for a few minutes at luncheon, Mr. Taft hurried to the home of Mrs. Taft's sister, Mrs. Laughlin, where he was joined by Mrs. Taft, Mrs. Laughlin and Miss Helen Taft, and proceeded to the Union station, where he found a surprise awaiting him in the presence of the members of his cabinet, their wives and a large number of personal friends determined to give him a warm farewell greeting.
Two special cars were attached to the regular train, one containing Mr. and Mrs. Taft, Miss Helen Taft, Mrs. Laughlin, Charles D. Hilles and Mrs. Hilles and W. W. Mischler, Mr. Taft's private stenographer, and the other containing a committee from Augusta, Ga., acting as an escort to Mr. Taft to that city.

Three Weeks of Recreation.
For the next three weeks Citizen Taft will enjoy the spring sunshine and the pine woods atmosphere around Augusta, where the people propose to give him every attention and courtesy. He will play golf, automobile and have a good time generally. Then he will return north to become Prof. Taft of Yale and to hush for a living just the same as any other man.
It is known that Prof. Taft will write much for the magazines and newspapers, and that part of his income will be derived from this work. He will have many offers; in fact, has many now. He will do no writing until he has rested up. He is also likely to deliver some lectures outside of Yale.

Mr. Taft had breakfast at the White House after 9 o'clock this morning, his last meal there as President. With him were Mrs. Taft and Miss Helen. Mr. Taft had worked far into the morning, signing bills, letters and autographs, and he slept rather late. Hundreds of photographs, which friends had sent from every part of the country, were banked around the executive offices today ready for mailing. Hundreds of telegrams and cable messages continued to arrive, even after the new President entered office, and these will be sent to Mr. Taft at Augusta.

Mrs. Taft Not at Capitol.

Mrs. Taft did not go to the Capitol to witness the ceremonies, and she remained at the White House until 11:30 o'clock before proceeding to join her sister, Mrs. Laughlin. Even as Mrs. Taft was saying good-bye to the White House, servants and attendants, boxes of flowers were arriving by express for the new lady of the land, Mrs. Wilson, sent from friends in a number of states.
Mrs. Taft left in the White House automobile, accompanied by Lieut. Rockwell, U. S. A., and Dr. Grayson, U. S. N. A. A bicycle policeman followed.

Farewell Greetings.

Among the cablegrams received by President Taft yesterday was one from the Philippine commission signed by the governor, Gen. Forbes, commending him for what he has done for the islands during the past thirteen years in the capacity of president of the Philippine commission, civil governor of the Philippines, Secretary of War and President of the United States, and expressing regret at his retirement from office.

Like cablegrams were received from Gov. George R. Colton of Porto Rico and from Juan Hernandez Lopez, president of the fourth centenary committee of Porto Rico.
A farewell greeting that touched Mr. Taft yesterday was from the three special commissioners appointed by Cuba to express the greetings of President Gomez and the Cuban people and their gratitude to President Taft for the part he had taken in the life of the Cuban nation during his provisional governorship.

REPORTS LIST IS READY

Tells Newspapers That He Has Made No Currency Legislation
Plans—Bryan Calls.

Mr. Wilson gave an interview to the newspapermen at the Shoreham Hotel this morning before his departure for the White House. He said he had made no plans as yet for recommending currency legislation, and would not do so until he had had an opportunity for a series of conferences on this subject with public men here. He said the list of cabinet appointments would be sent to the Senate this afternoon shortly after the new Senate convenes. He said he would be ready to name the tenth member of the cabinet, the Secretary of Labor, at the same time he sends in the other names.
"I will be ready," he said, "like a hair-trigger."

William J. Bryan was the first man in public life to call on Mr. Wilson this morning. He said he had not been able to get in touch with President Wilson yesterday afternoon, although he telephoned the hotel several times. When greeted by the newspapermen as Mr. Secretary Mr. Bryan said:
"I see I am the first," referring to members of the new cabinet, "to call here this morning."

National Democratic Chairman William F. McCombs was in a long conference with Mr. Wilson and Mr. Bryan before the departure for the White House.
When Mr. Wilson told the newspapermen this morning that he would send the names of his cabinet officers to the Senate this afternoon, he did not remember that the Senate would adjourn prior to his taking the oath of office and that it would not reassemble until tomorrow. Therefore, the names of the members of the cabinet will not be officially known until tomorrow.

Tumulty Early at Office.

Secretary Tumulty was at the executive offices early in the morning to inquire about the sending in of the cabinet nominations. One of the old employees there told him that the nominations had never gone to the Senate until the 5th of March, merely because the Senate is not in session on the 4th after the new President becomes the head of the government.
Secretary Tumulty did not go to the Capitol to see Mr. Wilson take the oath of office. A sick child, together with a number of details connected with his office, kept Mr. Tumulty down town until after 10 o'clock, and he concluded that he would not risk getting through the crowds at the Capitol, having made no previous arrangements to do so.
Mr. and Mrs. Tumulty were guests of President and Mrs. Wilson at luncheon this afternoon, and later in the afternoon Mr. Tumulty went to the executive offices for the first time in his new official capacity.

HIGHER COAL RATE OPPOSED.

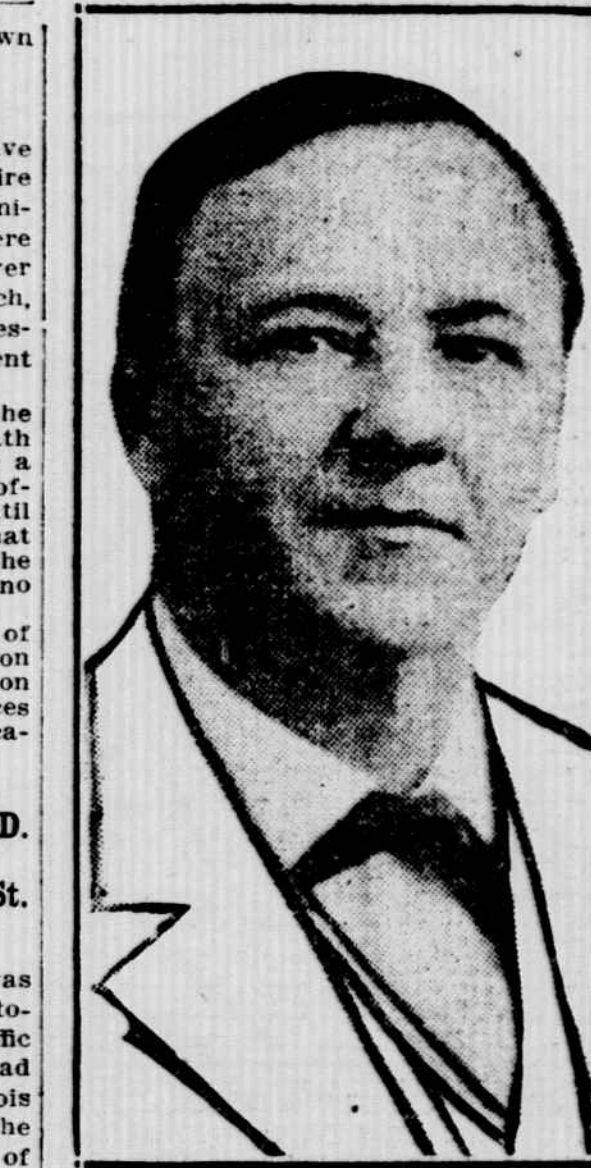

Government Files Suit Against St.
Louis Traffic Bureau.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., March 4.—A suit was filed in the federal district court here today against the St. Louis coal traffic bureau to enjoin it from making railroad rates on coal carried from the Illinois mines to St. Louis and to dissolve the bureau as a combination in restraint of trade.
The suit was filed by Attorney General Wickersham and E. C. Crow for the government and resulted from an announced increase of 5 cents on coal rates to St. Louis which was to have been effective April 1.

Pringle of Milwaukee, where the defendant will be required to appear at the April term of the federal court.
Both families involved are wealthy. The trouble which preceded the writing of the letter is said to have been a dispute between the women over the social leadership of Antigo.
Mrs. Stewart and her husband were on a shopping tour here when she was arrested. They planned to leave for Florida this evening.

Harvey Saylor and Miss Mary Myers, both of Red Lion, Pa., were married at Grace Methodist Protestant parsonage, Bel Air, Md., by Rev. H. L. Schlinke.

FINE BRAND OF WEATHER
FOR INAUGURATION DAY

Contrast Between Conditions
Now and What They Were Four Years Ago.

In striking contrast with inauguration day four years ago, when there was a blizzard that cut Washington off from the rest of the world for a time, and many visitors and organizations did not even succeed in getting into the capital, the weather today is mild, and at times the sun has shone with warmth that was uncomfortable for men marching under overcoats.
The day dawned cold and gray, a solid bank of clouds completely shutting off the sun, threatening to carry out the official prediction of "unsettled weather in the late afternoon or tonight."
A light south wind has fanned the city, however, bringing with it, despite the thermometer, which has been between 45 and 50 degrees. Apparently, no such discomforts and privations as attended the inauguration blizzard four years ago are threatened.
Because of the cloudy weather this forenoon and as an aid to the march, Gen. Wood, grand marshal of the inaugural parade, issued an order about 10 o'clock directing all the regular police, the marshals and their staffs to wear overcoats in the line of march.
An effort was made to reach all the organizations by telephone in time, but it was only partially successful.
The result was a lack of uniformity in the matter, many of the civilian soldiers appearing without their overcoats.
